

Delta Engineering – Operational Buyer

Operational Buyer

At Delta Engineering, you'll join an ambitious, fast-growing environment. As a Buyer, you are a key link in our internal processes, which run from design through production to delivery. Our ambition to deliver high-quality machines within an agreed timeframe calls for smooth and efficient internal operations.

Your responsibilities

As an operational buyer, you are responsible for production-related purchasing at our Belgian site.

- You handle purchasing files from A to Z: you request quotes, compare prices and terms, negotiate with suppliers and follow up on the entire process through to delivery.
- You translate the needs from MRP and the various departments into concrete orders in the ERP system.
- You closely monitor your orders and make sure deliveries arrive on time and as agreed. In case of delays, you proactively contact the supplier and look for solutions.
- When delivery issues arise, you work closely with planning and production to quickly find suitable alternatives and ensure the continuity of our operations.
- You take responsibility for resolving discrepancies between orders and receipts, coordinating with the internal and external parties involved.
- You monitor stock levels and continuously seek the right balance between availability and inventory costs.
- You keep key master data, such as prices, lead times and delivery terms, accurate and up to date in the ERP system.
- You help build a strong and reliable network of international suppliers across various technical product categories.
- You work closely with the purchasing team at our site in Romania.

Your talents

- You have a technical background and strong analytical skills.
- You have extensive experience as a buyer.
- You are a natural communicator and networker.
- In addition to a healthy commercial sense, you also have strong persuasive skills.
- You personally contribute to positive business results and a good working atmosphere.
- You have strong written and verbal skills in Dutch and English. Knowledge of French and German is a plus.

Our commitment

A secure, varied job within a young, growing company and an enthusiastic team. You'll work for a financially sound company with a leading name and a clear vision for the future.

<https://delta-engineering.be/>